Discussion contributions take argumentatively position on a discussion-worthy topic with reference to psychological research or practice (max. 20,000 characters).

Book reviews
Reviews refer to a new published work from the psychological research or practice (max. 8,000 characters).

Submission of manuscripts:

Manuscripts should consider the usual guidelines of manuscript design of the German Society of Psychology (DGPs) or the American Psychological Association (APA). However, in contrast to the guidelines of DGPs or APA we ask the authors to set those passages which should appear in italics in the printing version already in the manuscript version in italics. The abstract should not exceed 1,000 characters. Contributions can be written in German or English language. If a manuscript is written in German language, both a German and an English abstract should be submitted. Following the abstract, up to six Keywords should be listed. In German contributions the keywords should indicated both in German and in English.

In order to ensure an anonymous review, the names of the authors should appear only on the title page.

Tables and figures should be numbered and attached separately at the end of the manuscript. The place in which the respective table or figure shall be inserted should be marked in the manuscript text.

Please submit your manuscripts to the following email-address:

Journal-Psychologie-des-Alltagshandelns@uibk.ac.at

We need a version in pdf-format as well as a version in .doc (e.g., Word) or .rtf.

Specimen copy
The first authors receive one issue in which the paper has been published as well as a pdf-copy of their article.
